- Jane: Mum, It's my birthday, you know...
- Mamma: Yes I Know, but it isn't today. It is next week.
- Jane: Yes, yes next week. Anyway can I have a present?
- Mamma: Sure Jane. What would you like?
- Jane: I don't want a dog or a videogame. I'd like a birthday party. Please, mum...
- Mamma: You can't invite all your friends.
- Jane: I don't want to invite all my friends. Only 10 of them.
- Mamma: mmm... are they boys and girls.
- Jane: Yes, but we are not going to play football I promise!
- Mamma: Oh, Jane, I'm so sorry, our living room is too small.
- Jane: I could have a party in my room.
- Mamma: In your room? What about your brother?
- Jane: Tim doesn't like dancing. He can go to do his homework to the library.
- Mamma: Jane, your room is too small to dance.
- Jane: Right. I could have a birthday party in the garden.
- Mamma: We haven't a garden, we live at the 5th floor of a block of flats. Mmm... what about grandma's garden?
- Jane: Grandma's doesn't live in town.
- Mamma: Your dad and I could drive you and your friends to her house.
- Jane: Oh mum, thank you. You're great!
